

Nicole's English Classes

Conditional Tense:
Out of this World!

Zero Conditional

First Conditional

Mixed Conditionals

Second Conditional

Third Conditional

Nicole's English Classes

ZERO CONDITIONAL

Used for facts and truths- things that are always true

USE

IF-CLAUSE

Present Simple

MAIN CLAUSE

Present Simple

FORM

If you heat water, it boils.
If I'm tired, I go to bed early.
If it rains, the ground gets wet.

EXAMPLES

REMEMBER

You can always swap the order of the If-clause and the Main Clause in any conditional sentence. For example, you can say: If it reaches 100 degrees, water boils. AND Water boils if it reaches 100 degrees. (Don't use a comma when the if-clause comes second!)

Nicole's English Classes

FIRST CONDITIONAL

Used for statements that are real or possible future situations.
The results are very likely

USE

IF-CLAUSE

Present Simple

MAIN CLAUSE

Future Tense

FORM

If it rains, I will stay home.
If I study, I will pass the test.
We will catch the bus if we hurry.
You will be tired if you go to bed late.

EXAMPLES

You can use other modal verbs instead of “will” for different meanings:

might: possibility

Ex. If it rains, we might stay home.

can: ability

Ex. If you study, you can pass the test.

may: permission

Ex. If you're good, you may get ice cream.

Let's Practice: Match the ship to the planet!

If you close your eyes

If you eat too much fast food

If you have big muscles

If you don't brush your teeth

If you run slowly

If you don't exercise

If you stand outside in a rainstorm

If you swim in the ocean with sharks

If you raise your hand

If you do your homework

You will be able to lift a lot of weight.

Your teacher will be happy.

You will get fat.

You will lose your teeth.

You will become weaker and lazier.

You will get eaten.

You will be able to answer the question.

You won't be able to see.

You will lose the race.

You will get wet.

Great job!

If you close your eyes

You won't be able to see.

If you eat too much fast food

You will get fat.

If you have big muscles

You will be able to lift a lot of weight.

If you don't brush your teeth

You will lose your teeth.

If you run slowly

You will lose the race.

If you don't exercise

You will become weaker and lazier.

If you stand outside in a rainstorm

You will get wet.

If you swim in the ocean with sharks

You will get eaten.

If you raise your hand

You will be able to answer the question.

If you do your homework

Your teacher will be happy.

Nicole's English Classes

SECOND CONDITIONAL

Used for unreal or imaginary situations. Things that are not true now and not likely to happen in the future.

USE

IF-CLAUSE

Past Tense

MAIN CLAUSE

would

FORM

EXAMPLES

If I had a million dollars, I would buy a castle.

If it snowed in the summer, we would build a snowman.

I would play tricks on my friends if I was invisible.

I would fly to school if I had a pet dragon.

We use the second conditional for imaginary situations!

The if-clause is in the past tense, but we are not talking about the past!

We sometimes use “were” not “was” after if, even with “I”.

EX: If I were rich, I would travel the world.

You can use other modal verbs for different meanings:

might: If I had time, I might learn the guitar.

could: If I had wings, I could fly.

FINISH THE SENTENCE

If I could speak with the president...

If I were rich...

If I found 100 dollars on the ground...

If I had the opportunity to go anywhere in the world...

Nicole's English Classes

THIRD CONDITIONAL

Used for unreal situations in the past. Used to tell regret or imagined changes to past events. Things that didn't happen and what would have happened if they did.

USE

IF-CLAUSE

past perfect

MAIN CLAUSE

would have

FORM

EXAMPLES

If I had known, I would have helped you.

I would have stayed inside if it had rained.

If I had studied, I would have passed the test.

I would have went to the gym if I had woken up earlier.

It is about the past! - But an unreal or imaginary past:
The event did not actually happen

Often expresses regret, relief, or reflection

Other modal verbs: might have, could have

2nd conditional

- imaginary present/future
- If I won the lottery, I would travel.
- It is not real, but maybe possible

3rd conditional

- imaginary past
- If I had won the lottery, I would have traveled.
- It didn't happen.

FINISH THE SENTENCES

If I had been born 100 years ago,
I would have...

If my teacher had been an alien, I
would have...

If I hadn't eaten that spicy taco, I wouldn't have...

If dinosaurs had survived, humans
would have...

MIXED CONDITIONAL

Used when the time in the if-clause and the time in the result are different. We mix two types of conditionals (2nd and 3rd)

USE

PAST---> PRESENT

if + past perfect + would

PRESENT ---> PAST

if + past simple + would have

FORM

EXAMPLES

If I had studied harder, I would have a better job now.

If she hadn't eaten all the cake, she would feel hungry now.

If I were taller, I would have joined the basketball team.

If we lived in Spain, we would have learned Spanish at school.

Let's break it down

Past ---> Present

Past affects the present

if + past perfect + would + base verb

If I had slept earlier, I would feel better now.

Present ---> Past

Present affects the past

if + past simple + would have

If I were taller I would have played basketball when I was a teenager.

Nicole's English Classes

If you understand conditionals, you'll definitely go beyond this world —
maybe even to Mars!

Thanks for learning with
Nicole's English Classes!
Visit our website for more fun ways to practice the conditional tense!

